Medical services,	8 42
Coopering.	3 50
Steer,	37 00
Amount of Expenditures,		$311 53
<hr/>
Which deducted from the above receipts leaves a balance in favor of the Alms-House of		$508 19
Which is accounted for as follows:
Paid J. Hastings for services with hearse,	37 00
“ “ “ Collecting taxes,	25 00
“ “ “ Balance of salary	238 00
Amounting to the sum of		$300 00
<hr/>
Which deducted from the above leaves a balance in favor of Alms-House, on cash account, of		$208 19
Which sum has been paid over to the Treasurer as per Selectmens' Report.
To the above $208 19 add amount due Alms-House,		$35 31
<hr/>
And the amount is		$243 31
Deduct loss on appraisal,		221 33
Leaves a balance in favor of Alms House of		$21 98

An inventory and appraisal of the personal property at the Alms-House, made on the 28th day of February, 1863, amounts, at par cash value, to $1,487 18 ; being $221 33 less than last year's appraisal, the difference being mostly in live stock.

The produce of the Farm has been as follows:

6 Calves,	5 bushels Turnips,
8 Pigs,	15 “ Beets,
35 tons Hay,	75 “ Apples,
50 bushels Oats,	10 loads Pumpkins,
8 “ Peas,	1000 pounds Pork,
34 “ Barley,	700 “ Beef,
23 “ Beans,	20 Chickens,
175 “ Corn,	180 Turkeys,
225 “ Potatoes,	200 pounds Cheese,
25 “ Carrots,	775 “ Butter.

The same good order, neatness, and economy, that have characterized the agent and his wife in their management of the affairs of the Alms-House in former years, have continued during the past year.

The provisions, grain, &c., will probably be sufficient for the season.

There have been at the Alms-House, the past year, from twelve to twenty inmates. One has died, and six have left. The present number is thirteen.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT

OF THE

Superintending School Committee.

It is with pleasure your Committee presents the Annual Report required by the laws of the State, a report in which every one must feel a deep interest, as it relates to a subject of such vital importance.

In speaking of the Schools generally, your Committee judges that they have been conducted with their usual interest and prosperity; with a commendable zeal on the part of all concerned. No school during the year has been broken up either by the inefficiency of the teacher, or by disreputable conduct of the scholars. One or two schools have suffered by sickness, otherwise the schools have been conducted with their usual success. That all the schools have met with the same success, is not possible.

Of Teachers—Or that all the teachers have been equally successful, or that all were equally as well qualified; but very generally they have been earnestly devoted to their work. So varied are the circumstances under which the very best of teachers are called to instruct, it is not deemed necessary to speak either of their merit or demerit in a report like this. While Cornish is under no necessity of going abroad for her teachers, it should be her pride to be called upon for many to instruct elsewhere; and a laudable ambition should burn in the bosom of many of her sons and daughters to excel in this department of responsibility and usefulness.

Of School Books. There has been no change in books except in arithmetics. Your Committee found, on entering upon his duties, that several kinds were used in the schools, such as Greenleaf's, Adams's, Holbrook's, Emerson's, &c. He has recommended, instead of this great variety, Greenleaf's series, which has been introduced to a considerable extent at about half of the usual cost of the books. Teachers should not take the responsibility of recommending Text Books. It should be left to those who are authorized by law. The frequent use of the Dictionary, which has been recommended from year to year, should be insisted upon by all who are interested in the cause of education.

Of Districts. They should seek the very best qualified teachers, and no agent should employ one unless he has the most certain evidence that the person proposing to teach is in every respect thoroughly qualified. Low wages and poor teachers is the very worst policy which any district can pursue. A short school for our children to learn what they should, and as they should, is preferable to a long one where they will learn many things which the next term must correct, or our children receive such an education as will bring shame upon those who have been their educators. The price which a teacher demands for his or her services, is a small thing compared with the qualifications which are required.

Among the many qualifications demanded, the first which the agent should look for, is ability to govern, without which there can be no success. And in this department of the school the district should deeply sympathize with the teacher, knowing how difficult a task he or she has to perform. If many of us find it difficult to have our children do as they should at home, what a difficult work is imposed upon the teacher who has such a variety of dispositions to deal with, trained under different and dissimilar circumstances, and at the same time impart to them mental instruction! Agents should make extensive inquiries in regard to the qualifications of a teacher before they engage their services.

Districts should also see that the rudiments of an English education are strictly attended to, among which are reading, writing, and spelling.

These few practical hints, with the following Statistical Table, your Committee submits as his report.

The above table is but an approximation to correctness in some instances, as two schools have not yet closed, and some teachers failed to fill their registers as the law requires.
